These license options are the easiest way to protect all of your design and documentation. "This is the best option when a firm's entire product line must be protected. By moving to a unique COSMOS ID® protection scheme, we can now license only the licenses required for the application on demand – on the license server or on a per-license basis to any number of computers," stated Hart Meinhold, CEO of Covisint Inc. "As the licensee is responsible for securing the necessary administrative access to the license server, using COSMOS ID® and license product combination eliminates the need for a new license every time the customer wants to use the solution." Covisint has three product options for licensing COSMOS ID®: Covisint's COSMOS® ID Enterprise Edition is fully automated and includes all of the functionalities from the stand-alone COSMOS® ID Professional Edition. Covisint's COSMOS® ID Enterprise Plus is fully automated, but includes a feature set that is comparable to the COSMOS® ID Standard Edition. Covisint's COSMOS® ID Standard is completely manual, but is the most economical license option available. Solutions Covisint's products are modular, enabling custom tailored solutions for use in applications of any complexity. With Covisint, everything you need is included, including the best support system in the industry. You get certified, experienced professionals with flexible pricing options.
